2024 FEATURED ARTWORK

ROGER ORE Nature's Playground

Roger Ore
Presenting:
"Nature's Playground"
56" h x 40" w - Oil on Linen

Roger Ore, a native of Utah, is a painter of western panoramas. His oil paintings depict the breathtaking beauty of the Colorado and Wyoming mountain ranges. In his art, Roger lavishes attention on distant sky dramas while painting the foreground in even greater detail. Wildlife, mountain men, and Native Americans are often included as subjects when Roger goes beyond the already impressive landscapes.

Born and raised in the West, Roger took a liking for painting at a young age and learned early in life of the natural beauty and intrinsic value of the mountains and surrounding landscapes. During his school years, Roger was an avid painter and sculptor, winning awards and scholarships to several colleges and universities.

Influenced by the art of Wilson Hurley, Tucker Smith, and Frank McCarthy, Roger's love of art and intense desire to paint never waned. He has studied with several artists including Velay Eaton and Stuart Heimdal, working to improve the lines in his paintings by giving them a softer touch.

Roger attributes his success to his ability to paint with realism and absolute veracity. "I've taken a real interest in trying to capture the moods of the weather and the rugged beauty of the Rocky Mountains, especially the Tetons", says the artist. His very tight and intensive style of brushwork imposes a severe limitation on his work output, as a result, he can complete only a very select number of paintings over an extended time. This exclusivity of his production always leaves the patrons waiting for more.

2024 FEATURED ARTWORK

BRYCE PETTIT Born & Raised

Bryce Pettit
Presenting:
"Born and Raised" – Bronze Sculpture
37" h x 20" w x 18" d

Bryce grew up surrounded by nature, which fostered a deep interest in the world around him. His desire to create and his love of the natural world have always been closely linked. He studied the natural sciences continuing onto graduate studies in ecology. Eventually the passion to create became undeniable and he focused full time on a career as a sculptor.

Bryce has been a professional sculptor for nearly 25 years and is featured in a collection of acclaimed galleries and exhibitions. He has also created several large public works including for the Tulsa International Airport, the Maritime Museum in Ludington Michigan, the Na 'Aina Kai Botanical Gardens in Kawai, Hawaii as well a collection of libraries and schools.

Bryce lives in Durango, Colorado surrounded by the mountains and rivers he loves.

A limited edition of 10 bronze castings of Mr. Pettit's "Born & Raised" sculpture will be available for purchase at the QuickDraw auction. For more information about the auction process and to express your interest in Mr. Pettit's sculpture, please scan the QR code.
